THE DAILY CONSTITUTION

VOL. X. ATLANTA, GA. SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1878. NO 326

WELCOME HOME.

Return of the Gate City Guards from Charleston.

Yesterday morning, before the hour of the arrival of the Air-Line train, a very large crowd had assembled at the depot to welcome Captain J. F. Burke and his gallant command, the Gate City Guards.

THE GOVERNOR'S GUARDS,

under command of Captain Milledge, were in line to tender an escort to their comrades in arms. This mark of esteem from one of our volunteer companies to another was very appropriate, and was typical of that true spirit of soldierly generosity which we hope to see abound among our companies. Captain Milledge and his men presented a very fine appearance.

As the train slowly rolled into the huge depot the voices of the Gate City Guards could be heard in mellow harmony, singing "Home Again," which was suddenly interrupted by prolonged and enthusiastic cheers from the immense crowd that filled the depot. As soon as the train stopped hundreds pressed forward to shake hands with the "boys" and inquire how they were received in South Carolina.

The men were dressed in fatigue coats and each wore on his left breast a badge of one or other of the Charleston companies. Attached to each belt was a fan sent to the company by Messrs. McCoy & Rice, of Charleston, and every man wore a straw hat with an immense brim. Soon the command was heard to "fall in," and the men began to file out of the car, the first one carrying the picture of "brave Hampton" that was presented to the company by the officers of the 4th Brigade, South Carolina volunteer troops at Charleston. As soon as the crowd caught sight of the picture the thunder of voices that greeted it was deafening. The men marched off at the "right shoulder arms," except that the stocks of their guns were elevated in the end of the muzzles. As they passed before their escort, the Governor's Guards, Capt. Milledge saluted by "presenting arms," being the usual military formula, but the astonishment of Captain Milledge and his men, as well as the mass of spectators, reached the highest degree when Captain Burke, without halting his company, commanded: "A rocket for the Governor's Guards!" Instantly every throat in the Gate City Guards yelled: "One, two, three—sis z-z-z—boom—Ba-a-a-a-h." The effect was electric, and every word was sounded together. This was the cheer they learned in Charleston, and they will continue to use it in memory of their Charleston friends. The procession marched to the armory of the Gate City Guards, headed by Bentley's excellent band. After the usual salutations between the Governor's Guards and the Gate City's and their officers, the escort marched to their armory, their light uniform giving them a handsome and soldierly appearance. Captain Burke then addressed his men as follow::

Comrades—"Our return to our own house closes one of the grandest ovations that was ever given an individual organization. From the time we left this city to the hour of our return we have been the recipients of uninterrupted generosity, showered on us without bounds or limit. Were the whole state of Georgia to unite in one grand jubilee of welcome to our friends of South Carolina we could not cancel one iota of the obligations we owe to them for their reception and entertainment of us as Georgians. If our friends of South Carolina will give us an opportunity we will show them what we can do. We can entertain their governor in return for their royal reception of ours. We will endeavor to "punch" them on the ragged borders of strict military discipline and pay the bill with alacrity, but a Carolinian thinks he is not doing the gentlemanly thing unless he pays his bar bill twice. If they will come to us, they will find our latch string ever on the outside, and we will put an additional piece to it that the smallest of them may reach it. Now for a parting cheer for our friends of South Carolina." Captain Burke then enumerated, with wonderful accuracy, all those who were prominent in their courtesies to the company, beginning at Greenville and ending at Charleston, to ladies and gentlemen, as in rehearsal fifty voices responded to the call. Governors Colquitt and Hampton and the Governor's receiving their share. The company then "broke ranks," cheering their captain as they did.

Thus ended one of the most enthusiastic and grand ovations that was ever extended to a military organization in this country.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Arrangements for a Grand Fireman's Parade.

We are informed that arrangements are being made to have a grand fireman's parade in this city, together with a contest for hose, reels and steam engines on the fourth of July. This effort is being advanced with a view to bring the fire departments of

AUGUSTA AND MACON,

Georgia, to this city on that day. It has been intended by the friends of these two departments that if a sufficient inducement is offered that they will come up and bring with them some of their crack companies. Other departments may also be induced to come. Savannah, Georgia, is never behind on an occasion of this kind. Columbus, too, may send up some of their fast runners with their picked men and fine steamer. Our informant remarked that he would not be surprised at all if Charleston did not come to the front with a fine steamer or two. One thing is certain, the prizes will be offered, and will be handsome enough to tempt their attendance in our city on that day. It is proposed to give a first and second prize for the fastest time made by the hose reel, and similar prizes in the steamer contest. The total cost of the prizes will amount to about $400. Arrangements have been made with the various railroads running into our city to

to all visitors to our city on that day. These reduced rates together with the fact that no entrance fee will be charged contesting companies, should have the desired effect and bring to our city quite a large number of visiting companies on that occasion. The contest will be arranged to come off in the forenoon so as to allow all to visit Oglethorpe park in the afternoon and witness the races.

The main feature of the sport during the afternoon at the track will be the match trotting race for $500 a side between the stallions "Storm," of Atlanta, and "John Kimble Jackson," of Griffin, Ga. The programme for the day is a very attractive one, and will bring large numbers of strangers to our city.

THE SEWERAGE QUESTION.

A Meeting of the Fifth Ward Last Night.

The citizens of the Fifth ward met last night at the store of R J. Griffin to appoint a committee to go before the city council with a petition for the extension of the Walton spring sewer to Alexander street.

The meeting was largely attended. Mr Jones was made chairman and Mr. Mallon secretary. The following committee was appointed: Dr. H. L. Wilson, B. H. Hill, jr., F. P. Rice, Dr. Spalding and R. J. Griffin. They will prepare a memorial setting forth the facts.

Mr Flynn, chairman of sewers, appeared before the meeting and stated that he would pledge the meeting that the work on the sewer would be commenced in three weeks. It is the third piece of work on the programme.

Mr Maher was present and pledged his co-operation. Messages were received from other members encouraging the work.

Mrs. Mary Madden.

A distinguished musician who was visiting Atlanta complimented Mrs. Mary Madden in the highest terms for the taste, precision and expression with which she read the piano part to that very difficult trio of Rubenstein's, which is to be given to-morrow night at Concordia. Atlanta may well be proud of a pianist who certainly holds a prominent place among the very best musicians of our country, not only on account of her perfect technique but also for her intuitive perception of the musical idea of each author's composition and ability to make the same felt and understood, even by uneducated listeners. To be brief, Mrs. Madden not only possesses all the knowledge of theory and execution acquired by years of study and the teachers in the world, but also possesses that rarest of gifts—true musical genious. 15

A Bold Thief

Yesterday while Mrs. Smith was walking down Whitehall street a negro boy about half grown snatched her purse out of her pocket and ran. A gentleman not far off gave chase, but the negro got away, and has not been found so far.

This is one of an hundred such thieves that prowl around the streets looking for a chance to steal, and willing to take hold of anything but work. Can't our police try the vagrant law on these black rascals? It will soon become necessary for some step to be taken to rid ourselves of these abominable scoundrels. They are not only thievish and lazy, but insolent on every occasion. We call upon the police commissioners to take some steps to protect our people.

There is no one but wants money, and it is the easiest thing in the world to obtain a few dollars invested in the Louisiana State Lottery drawing, to take place June 11th, 1878. It is fair and square beyond any peradventure.

—Of the late Dr Brock, who was one of the foremost preachers in England, it was said his first efforts were so poor that a country congregation once offered him less than a dollar for three sermons.

—A coxcomb, talking of the transmigration of souls, said: "In the time of Moses, I have no doubt I was the golden calf." "Very likely," replied a lady, "and time has robbed you of nothing but the gilding."

—A remark of an old minister is commended to all preachers who are tempted to complain of a small congregation: "It is as large a congregation, perhaps, as you will want to account for at the day of judgment."

—Henry County News: Dr. Boring, of Atlanta, filled the Methodist pulpit at McDonough on last Sunday night, and electrified his audience with one of his fine sermons. Though his frame is feeble with years, and his voice tremulous with age, yet his words are impressive; and though he may have lost some of the eloquence of his youth, yet genius still kindles his eye with the "living light" and his sermons are remarked for an expression and beauty and force which rank him among our finest pulpit orators.

A WHITE BLUE JAY.

Atlanta Rejoices in a Rara Avis

We have often heard of a red blackberry. The laws of nature require that this kind of fruit must get red before it can turn black and ripen, but never until a few days since did we know that there was such a thing as a white blue jay, or to be more explanatory, a white jay bird, that species of the feathered tribe that is said can never be seen on Friday. This it is claimed is owing to the fact that on that day the devil has the entire family employed hard at work in his brick-kiln. But to return to our bird story. Wednesday afternoon last Mr. Hudson, of Campbell county, a brother-in-law of Mr. Glen Green, came to this city, and visited the city hall for the purpose of exhibiting his curiosities, to Mr. Green and other gentlemen engaged in business at the court house. The birds, for there were two of them, were of ordinary size and they were perfectly white. They were fully feathered and Mr. Hudson says were two months old. He says that they were hatched on his farm in Campbell county.

Mr. Hudson informed the party standing around that the little visitors were hatched in a nest with three others, whose colors were blue. Last year the parents of the birds built their nest on his place and hatched out five young ones, three of which were white and the remaining two blue. The young ones grew up on the place and remained there until the cold weather set in, when they flew southward in search for

A SUMMER RESORT.

They have not since been seen. This year the old ones returned and built their nest in the same tree. Five young were hatched, three of which were blue and the remaining two white. These he had brought to town for the purpose of exhibiting, and showing to his friends that his story, which he took pleasure in telling last year, was nothing but the truth, and had no resemblance to a fish story. An effort was made to purchase the birds from Mr. Hudson by Mr. Roberts, the keeper of the city hall grounds, but with poor success, as Mr. Hudson would not sell his pets at any price.

When Mr. Hudson left the grounds for the purpose of returning home, he was followed to the gate by Mr. Roberts, who imploring Mr Hudson to sell him the birds. His entreaties, however, were of no avail. Mr. Hudson returned home with his curiosities. Now, we know that Bill Moore, of the Augusta Evening News, will doubt this statement, and that Joe Jones, of the Telegraph and Messenger, will manipulate his curly locks for some hours before he places credence in it; but the facts above stated can be certified to by Mr. Green and others, at the city hall park, and, if necessary, we will send a telephone dispatch for Mr. Hudson. A number of our citizens were at the court house Friday to see the birds, but were disappointed, as it is a well known fact that it is against their religion to give performances on that day.

Base Ball.

A new base ball club has lately been organized in this city called the blue belts, with William A. Jack captain, and C S Hill, James Allensworth, Carl Mitchell, R G D Terville, J T Murphy, Morris Conley, H C Fitzsimmons and Jerry Mahoney, as members, and S J Rawson and J G Smith as substitutes.

They have challenged the alerts junior to a game next Wednesday, which challenge has been accepted. The game is to be played at Ormond's grove. They say that they will soon be on the track of the alerts proper. We wish the blue belts success.

GERMAN WAVES.

Girls Who are Trained With a View to Their Future Duties

Boston Traveler.

The culinary art forms a part of the education of woman in Germany. The well-to-do tradesman, like the mechanic, takes pride in seeing his daughters good housekeepers. To effect this object, the girl on leaving school, which she does when about fourteen years of age, goes through the ceremony of confirmation, and then is placed by her parents with a country gentleman, or in a large family, where she remains one or two years, filling what may also be termed the post of servant, or doing the work of one. This is looked upon as an apprenticeship in domestic economy.

She differs from a servant, however, in this—she receives no wages; on the contrary, her parents often pay for the care taken of her as well as her clothing. This is the first step in her education as housekeeper. She next passes, on the same conditions, into the kitchen of a rich private family, or in a hotel of good repute. Here she has control of the expenditures of the servants employed in it, and assists personally in the cooking, but is addressed as Miss, and is treated by the family with deference and consideration. Many daughters of rich families receive similar training, with this difference, however, that they receive it in a princely mansion or a royal palace. There is a reigning queen in Germany at the present time who was educated in this way. Consequently the women in Germany are perfect models in economy.

Curious Facts of Miscegenation.

From M. Victor Malignan's Book on the Antilles

The child of colored parents of different tints, such as quadroon and mulatto, or mulatto and black, will be nearer the tint of the darker parent. If both parents are of the same color, the child will be a shade darker, and, singularly enough, the second child will be darker than the first, the third darker than the second, and so on to the last.

In other words, a colored community, left to itself, is fatally destined to return to the original African black after a limited number of generations. Thus, while each new alliance with an individual of pure Caucasian blood brings the negro a step nearer to the white standard, the reverse is the case the moment the Caucasian element is withheld, and the color retrogrades from light to dark.

A curious proof of this is found in observations made during some time in one of the islands. A mulatto woman had a female child by a white man. This young girl gave birth to a quadroon by a white father, and this recrossing with the white race was kept up for six generations. An identical process of recrossing had been simultaneously noticed in another plantation. The children resulting from the seventh crossing in both of these families were of remarkable physical beauty; they had blonde hair, their complexion was of such transparent fairness that they might have been taken for Albinos, but for the vigor and gracefulness of their limbs and their brilliant intellect. The most experienced eye could not have detected in them the slightest indication of their African origin. They intermarried. Their children were dark complexioned and the children of their children are very dark mulattoes.

The inexorable law of nature is given as one of the principal reasons why the Creoles refuse to intermarry with families who have the faintest tinge of negro blood, though their skin may be as fair as that of Europeans. The Creoles wish their posterity to remain what they themselves are—whites.

Powder and Patriotism.

Nashville American.

A movement is on foot, originating at the recent International Sunday-school convention at Atlanta, and seconded at Brooklyn, New York, to observe the national holiday of the 4th of July, as a grand celebration by Sunday school children in lieu of the old style of celebrating the day with gunpowder, which is gradually falling into disfavor. The celebration by the children of the Sunday schools is not to be characterized by mere devotional exercises, but, as in Brooklyn, by a general congregation of children in Prospect park, where they shall have presented to their minds by suitable persons, statesmen and others, the moral principles underlying government and society, and the relation of them to public morality and private character and national purity and integrity.

The programme for such a celebration offered to the Atlanta convention, proposed that the schools throughout the United States should on the fourth of July assemble either singly or in divisions in churches, groves or public squares at 10 o'clock in the morning, where questions relevant to the occasion should be broached for general instruction in the forms of dialogues, addresses, etc.

The pastor, superintendent, or any of the teachers or friends may address the school on the following subjects: History, development and improvement of the institution, giving it effect upon the scholars, the parents, the community, the town, state or nation. After their religious and literary exercises the school may be directed to the playground for athletic sports and recreations, with or without refreshments. Enough of the teachers should accompany the scholars to prevent accident and insure propriety and purity of conduct and language. At 12 m., or any other hour deemed more convenient, the adult population should be assembled to hear an address or addresses from the best men in the country.

The experiment is at least worth a trial. It would indicate an advance above the ancient indulgence in villainous saltpetre and viler intoxicating drinks, that would be creditable to our civilization and mark its progress toward a more intellectual recognition of the lessons of "the day we celebrate."

NEW YORK, June 1.—William Cullen Bryant recognized his neice this morning. He also walked about the room and took nourishment three times. His condition is, therefore, looked upon as encouraging.

POTTER'S PROBE.

OPENING OF THE GREAT MEXICANIZATION.

A Foul Nest Aired—John Sherman Privy to Webber's Murder—Hayes Recommends Anderson for a Warm Place.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—All the members of Potter's committee were present.

The Florida sub-committee consists of Hinton, Springer, Hiscock and James.

ANDERSON'S TALE.

Anderson, the first witness, was placed on the stand. He had seen the document known as the Sherman protest. It had been altered. It was not the same as when signed by him (Anderson). There were two or three additional paragraphs to the document, and it was filled in in several places.

Anderson was of the opinion, because he would not carry out the ideas of Kellogg and others, that they were desirous of driving him out of the parish. Kellogg wished him to rally the negroes at two polls and let the others go democratic; remarking further that witness could and have the democratic votes thrown out. A document was produced purporting to be an affidavit signed by Drew Innes and Webber, supervisor of West Feliciana parish, wherein they refused to sign a protest against the elections in their parishes. The original of this affidavit witness said was now in the possession of Stanley Matthews. Witness and Webber had at Mollet's restaurant in New Orleans, who said: "Gentlemen, I understand there is a difficulty in your respective parishes. This is the time when the assistance of every republican and true patriot is needed, and I trust you will stand by us." They were assured by Mr. Sherman that they would be cared for, as Hayes would control the Federal patronage. All he desired was for them to stand in and let the record run along as it is. Witness then presented what purported to be a copy of

but the republicans objected to it being read until Sherman had seen it and recognized it, as a copy of his reply to Anderson and Webber.

Anderson testified that there were no protests on returns mailed by him from East Feliciana. He went to New Orleans where he met Marshal Pitkin, who asked him if there were any protests. The witness replied, no. Pitkin asked why. The witness replied: "Because there was republicans than democrats." Later Pitkin met the witness and wished he would make some protests, as the presidential election

HINGED ON LOUISIANA.

We brought a protest, which witness refused to sign. Other protests, already prepared, were brought witness, one of which he signed, to the effect that he did not protest in the parish, because he was afraid of his life.

Another protest was signed by Thomas O. Jencks, deputy United States marshal. The copy of the letter alleged to have been written by Webber, and says: "We have carefully considered the arguments used by you, which, if we comply with, we will have to leave the state. Will you tell us in writing who we shall look to for the fulfillment of your promise" Anderson identified the following as the letter he wrote to Webber over your refusal to protest. Morey has been following me every since my return. Am in doubt whether he is acting for the democrats, or republicans. There is no doubt that they changed my statement so as to make an investigation protests. Make up your mind as to what you had better do. If I am opposed to doing the kind of dirty work. If we pull together, Packard, Kellogg, Hell and the returning board cannot carry the state for Hayes. We are young and if we can get reputation that might take us years to gain." Witness stated that he had asked Mr. Townsend to subpœna him before the Morrison committee when he was in New Orleans, and that Gov. Kellogg came to him in the afternoon and said:

FOR GOD'S SAKE NOT TO DO IT.

That there ought to be no questions asked him which would lead to others that would ruin the whole thing. In a letter of the witness to one Pierre Bonner, of East Feliciana, dated November 16 1876, which was read it appears that Anderson was in communication with Major Burke, a manager for Louisiana interests, and that Burke offered him $1,000 to carry East Feliciana parish for Tilden.

RED TAPEWORM STATESMAN SWORN.

Secretary Sherman was placed on the witness stand. Chairman Potter submitted the letter which Anderson claims was written by Sherman to Webb and himself.

After reading it carefully, Secretary Sherman said he had never written such a letter. At the same time he said these things in letters but he does not believe he ever wrote it.

HE WOULD HAVE WRITTEN,

Mr. MacMahon called for a reading of the letter.

Mr. Hiscock objected.

A vote was taken on reading the letter, and it was adopted by a party vote, other than that Gen. Butler dodged. The letter was read as follows:

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20, 1876—D. A. Webber and James E. Anderson—Gentlemen: Your note of even date just received. Neither Mr. Mayer, myself or any of the gentlemen with me can forget the obligations under which you will have placed us if you stand firm in the position you have taken. From a long acquaintance with Mr. Hayes I am justified in for the promises made in guaranteeing you shall be taken care of." The letter concludes with an assurance of protection if they leave the state, and is signed "John Sherman."

A WARM CLIMATE.

Anderson testified he made an application to the president for a consulship and that the President indorsed the paper in his case to Secretary Evarts:

"Please appoint this man to a consulship in some warm climate. This is a special case."

R. B. HAYES.

The examination of Anderson was continued at great length. The points elicited are that Anderson signed a bank report which was filled in; that Weber, superintendent for West Feliciana, wrote his protest at Anderson's desk in the New Orleans custom house, November 14th, and swore to it before Commissioner Southworth. The evidence opens a large field of investigation, and involves quite a number of persons, through whom the truth or falsity of Anderson's evidence, it is thought, can certainly be made manifest.

Mr. Stephens' Croakings Not Alarming.

Augusta Chronicle.

Mr. Stephens evidently fails to properly estimate the effect of the investigation when he expresses the opinion that it will end either "in a contemptible farce, or a terrible tragedy." We do not believe that it will end in either. It cannot terminate in a "terrible tragedy," because under no circumstances will the democratic party countenance or permit any attempt to oust Mr. Hayes from the presidency before the expiration of the term for which he was declared elected by the only body having authority under the constitution to make such declaration. The democratic press, democratic leaders and democratic conventions all oppose re-opening the presidential question. If Mr. Hayes is interfered with, the attack upon his title will come from members of his own political party who do not hesitate to assert that he was not legally elected. The investigation cannot terminate in a "contemptible farce" unless the American people have become so grossly demoralized by eight years of Grantism, and all that the word implies, as to consider fraud a joke and crime something to excite laughter. The frauds in connection with the electoral votes of Florida and Louisiana that have heretofore been suspected will be proven, and the people will be asked to pass judgment at the ballot box upon the party that committed and was benefitted by them. This is what the investigation was designed to accomplish; this is what the investigation will accomplish. We regret to hear Mr. Stephens echoing Mr. Eugene Hale and the republican congressional committee's crying about the "Mexicanization" of the government. We regret that he is so easily alarmed by the Chinese gongs of political opponents. The government of the United States cannot be "Mexicanized" by the investigation and exposure of fraud any more than it can be by the conviction of a pick pocket or a horse thief. There will be neither "revolution" nor "Mexicanization," for the very good and sufficient reason that the people of the country do not desire and will not permit either the one thing or the other. If Mr. Stephens was not so well known his gloomy forebodings might cause some apprehension, but he has so often played the role of a political Cassandra that his prophecies of evil will not occasion alarm.

A Fatal Collision.

NEW YORK, June 1.—D. R. White's book, one of the largest tug boats on the river, was run into off Baltimore at six o'clock this morning by another tug, the Carey, and sunk almost instantly. Two men went down with her, the engineer and the cook. The captain and fireman were saved.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—The health of Gortschakoff is not sufficiently improved to give much hope of his attending the congress. The Agence Russe says if Prince Gortschakoff is unable, Count Schouvaloff and the Russian ambassador at Berlin will represent Russia.

A RUSSIAN WARNING.

The Times' St. Petersburg dispatch says that the public are semi-officially warned not to believe the various reports concerning the concessions by Russia. The people nevertheless fear they are too great.

A special to the Standard from Copenhagen reports that Russia has purchased the fast Swedish steamer Merotola to be used as a cruiser.

CONCENTRATION.

The Standard's dispatch from Vienna says that Austria intends to concentrate troops on the river Sav.

The Daily News, in its leader, says: We have reason to believe that early next week parliament will be informed of the arrangements concluded for the meeting of the congress.

THE CONGRESS.

The Agence Russe says the congress will hold only one session, during which the basis of peace will be settled and a final treaty signed. Congress will also make arrangements for the execution of the treaty and for the organization of various local commissions to supervise the same conference. The ambassadors at Constantinople will supervise the operations of these commissions.

THE INVITATIONS.

The Republique Francaise states that the issue of invitations to the congress is hourly expected. On the other hand, a dispatch to the Times dated Berlin last night, says the negotiations between England and Russia have not reached a stage permitting Germany to issue invitations.

A Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that Austria has just received satisfactory assurances on the subject of the boundaries of Bulgaria and the Russian occupation of the province.

The Agence Russe publishes an article which seeks to demonstrate how greatly the wealth and prosperity of Egypt would be increased by a European administration.

AUSTRIAN MANIFESTATIONS.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times asserts that Austria has notified Russia of her intention to occupy the island of Adakaleh, but neither received nor asked Russia's consent.

A Times dispatch from Bucharest says the Roumanian and Austrian officers are very cordial when they come in contact on the frontier.

A letter from Bulgaria states that the typ

ATLANTA GA.

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1878

MR POTTER'S committee are safely at work.

THE ragged edge has no charms for John Sherman.

THUS far there has been no revolution. It is probable that the season is too far advanced.

JOHN SHERMAN ought to import a few Mexicans for his own use. They are very convenient to have around when a witness is to be jammed between ultimate destiny and a phonographer.

ACCORDING to the organs, a desire for investigation is altogether Mexican. George, hand us our sombrero and lead out the San Antonio bull. Let us enjoy politics while they last.

MR. HAYES' secretary of the treasury ought to be more private in his attempts to bulldoze witnesses. His caucus with Anderson was one of the most dismal failures on record.

COLONEL EMORY SPEER is growing somewhat feeble-minded. He is of the opinion that "Uncle Remus" and the lamented author of "The Romance of Rockville" do their own advertising. Colonel Speer's ideas in this connection sadly need revision.

DOES Mr. Stephens's announcement that he will be an independent candidate for congress have any connection with Mr. Key's advice to the southern democrats to disorganize? The announcement that it is his intention to "stand" for congress in the eighth district would seem to be an indication of an attempt to break up the solid south.

A FEW FRANK WORDS.

It would appear from Mr. Key's remarks about independents in his recent extraordinary letter, that Mr. Hayes has not altogether abandoned his idea of melting the solid south by disorganizing the democratic party. We say to Mr. Hayes now, in all candor, if his policy succeeds he is lost. If there is any movement to unseat him, as his friends pretend to believe, it is engineered by such leading republicans as Conkling and Blaine, and such pseudo-democrats as Mr. Charles A. Dana represents. As the republican party is now constituted—two-thirds knaves and the other third respectable people who know nothing of politics save that it is a good thing to oppose anything that seems to be southern in its bearings—Blaine and Conkling are the real leaders, and from these Mr. Hayes need expect no leniency whatever. His only hope is in the solid south. We say this to him frankly, but without any hope that our remarks will reach his ears. There is no doubt in our mind that John Sherman, whose disgrace and deposition seem to be assured, is attempting to drag the entire administration down with him. He is unscrupulous, and, in a certain way, bold; but his influence over Mr. Hayes is altogether evil. This was shown in his letter to Anderson, the Louisiana convict, and it crops out even in his administration of the treasury department, which he consistently attempts to manage in the interest of the capitalists as against the people. We advise Mr. Hayes now, as we have advised him before, to drop John Sherman—we advise him to purify his administration by cutting loose from this unscrupulous political fraud. We have no idea that Mr. Hayes will receive our advice in the spirit in which it is given, but we can assure him that it is well meant. He has shown himself to be a true friend of the south. We have no right to inquire as to the motives that prompted him to interpose his policy of pacification between our people and the military despotism that overawed them. It is sufficient to know that he did interpose and to know that his interposition re-established civil government in two states. We say to him frankly that he has nothing to do with the direction the investigation may take. If he be true to the impulses that have thus far characterized his administration, the solid south will stand between him and any attempt to unseat him. Of that he may rest assured. But in any event it is his duty to rid himself of the incubus known as John Sherman.

THE HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.

Amid the rush of events the passage of the Fort currency bill has not attracted as much attention as its importance warrants. It not only forbids the drawing in of more greenbacks, but it requires Mr. Secretary Sherman to keep the present volume in circulation. As fast as received the bills must be paid out again. This secures to the people an equal volume of greenbacks—in round numbers, $346,000,000. The act does more than this, however,—it inaugurates a very large, although indefinite, expansion of the currency. It provides for such an expansion without without saying so in express terms. For it should be remembered that the free banking act remains in force, and every new issue of bank notes is so much added to the circulation of the [illegible] became of contraction. [illegible] made a good fight, and won it.

But we have much more to be thankful for this blessed Sunday morning than favorable legislation. A glorious harvest has begun, and the prospects of peace are decidedly bright. In fact, peace seems almost as certain as fine crops. To the south a peaceable solution of the eastern question is especially desirable; for a renewal of war on an enlarged scale would cut both ways—it would put down the price of cotton while it put up the price of both meats and breadstuffs. We would get less for what we had to sell, and have to pay more for what we had to buy. It is safe to say that peace will put seventy-five millions in the pockets of the people of the south.

With good crops almost assured, with an absolute prospect of increasing ease in the money market, and with a good prospect of peace in Europe, are we not justified in taking this morning a hopeful view of the condition of business? Let us then be thankful to-day, and work ful on the morrow.

THE NEXT HOUSE.

The disturbance that the administration and the republican party in general are just now engaged in raising, is simply an effort to carry the next house. The Mexican cry and all the pretended fear of revolution and anarchy means that and nothing more. They are trying to alarm the capitalists and the timid in the northern states. In view of this effort, the party prospects for the next house are becoming very interesting.

The present house consists of 156 democrats, 136 republicans, and the seat made vacant by the death of Judge Leonard. The democrats have therefore just twenty majority. We give the strength of the parties by sections:

	Dem.	Rep.
New England	6	22
Middle states	30	37
The west	31	69
The south	88	8

The democrats will not only hold their own in the south, but will doubtless gain two seats in South Carolina, one in Florida and one in Virginia. The re-apportionment in Ohio will lead to a gain of not less than five. A gain of four is expected in Missouri, from a similar cause. These gains would carry the democratic majority to forty-four, provided there were no losses. To overcome these figures the republicans must carry, in the northern states, twenty-three more districts than they did in 1876. Can they do it? The following table will permit each reader to make his own figures as to the result:

	1874.		1874.		1876

PEACE IN SIGHT.

The expectations of a harmonious settlement of the eastern question have increased until, in the public mind, the Berlin congress is considered as good as called. Pork and wheat are going down, and the peace feeling is everywhere in the ascendant. The good offices of Germany opened the way to a congress, and Count Schouvaloff did the rest, at least as far as the negotiations between Russia and England are concerned. These two governments have come or are about to come to an understanding, subject of course to the action of the congress. This understanding necessarily involves some considerable concessions on the part of Russia. The feeling at St. Petersburg is that these concessions have been altogether too great—have been almost humiliating. In the absence of official utterances, all is conjecture either here or at St. Petersburg. Beaconsfield has doubtless been firm, and the czar in the cause of peace and to escape bankruptcy has yielded some points. A cablegram to the New York Herald gives the following as the points which England and Russia have agreed upon:

1. There shall be two Bulgarian provinces—one north of the Balkans, under a prince; the other south of the Balkans (not to touch the Ægean sea, and its name to be chosen by the congress), with a Christian government, and the government modeled upon that of the English colonies.

2. The Turkish troops shall withdraw from the latter province, and not re-enter it.

3. England depiores, but will not oppose the retrocession of Bessarabia.

4. England reserves the right to discuss in the congress all international arrangements relating to the Danube.

5. England does not consider the possession of Batoum by Russia sufficient justification for hostile interference, and Russia promises not to further advance her frontier in Asia.

6. Russia will give up Bayazid to Turkey, at the request of England, but in exchange Turkey shall cede to Persia the province of Ketour, close to Bayazid. This has long been a disputed piece of territory, and the right of it, Russia says, belongs to Persia.

7. Russia promises neither to take the money indemnity in land nor to interfere with England's claims on Turkey as a creditor. The points as to the payment of the war indemnity to be discussed by the congress.

8. The congress will take steps to reorganize Epirus, Thessaly and other Greek provinces.

9. Russia agrees that the passage of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus shall remain in statu quo.

10. England will suggest at the congress that Europe reorganize Bulgaria, and will discuss the questions of Russian occupation of and the passage of troops through Roumania.

Whether the Herald's correspondent has ascertained the exact truth or not, it is reasonably certain that the essential questions involved will be settled by the powers. The only source of uneasiness at present is the attitude of Austria; but Count Andrassy claims that her military preparations look to, not a failure of a meeting of congress, but a failure of the congress to settle the questions. She must, he says, be prepared to look the facts in the face. The truth is, Austria is mercenary. She wants war. She proposes to arm, but does not propose to fight in any. She wants a chance to sell her ality for a big lot of territorial s. She feels that she cannot drive d bargain in the congress, and e her mutterings and demonstra- unfavorable to peace. They will e to nothing. She cannot prevent assembling of a congress, and her ousies of Anglo-Russian negotia- s are more amusing than danger-

The dead lock, which will, we hope, fully broken this week by the issue of invitations to the congress, be on the 18th day of March, when ince Gortschakoff declared to Lord ttus that Russia would decline to scuss the treaty of San Stefano in the ongress except as to the clauses which fected European interest. On March Lord Derby informed Count Schoualoff that the British government ould not recede from the position which they had taken. They must insist upon their stipulation that every article in the treaty should be placed before the congress. On March 26, Count Schonvaloff replied that the Imperial cabinet also refused to modify its declaration. This deadlock will be nearly three months old before the official notices of its dissolution are given. It must be conceded that the result has vindicated Beaconsfields claims to the first rank of statesmanship, while it has made Russian diplomacy the laughing stock of Europe. The British lion is a deal larger animal than he was when the deadlock began, and the Russian bear has correspondingly shrank. But let us await the action of the Berlin congress.

THE ARNETT CASE.

Exposing Popular Fictions.

Philadelphia Sunday School Times.

It is not the mission of the Sunday School Times to expose all the forgeries and fabrications which find currency in Sunday school circles. If we should devote ourselves to this, there would be little space in our columns for anything else. But once in a while we must direct attention to so well authenticated a fact as that Daniel Webster did not write the letter which travels in his name concerning a talk with Thomas Jefferson about Sunday schools; or that the Rev. Dr. Morrison was not brought as a poor boy into a London ragged school—even if we thereby spoil a great many newspaper editorials and platform speeches.

And now we are sure that it is high time to show up the widely circulated fiction that a colored clergyman was excluded from its membership by the international Sunday school convention at Atlanta The facts out of which this fiction was manufactured were so plainly before the press of the country that we refrained from extended comment on them, in the belief that those papers, religious and secular, which had at first been led into a misrepresentation of the case, would promptly correct their error, and withdraw the strictures they had based on it. But as time passes the story goes and grows, until this week it has a place in Harper's Weekly, with pictorial illustrations of the clergyman outraged, and of the convention which outraged him, and an added declaration which is without either the basis or the semblance of truth as its support. If the thing goes on at this rate, there is danger that the Atlanta convention will be charged with a deliberate purpose of restoring African slavery.

The truth is just here: A colored clergyman, of Ohio, was duly appointed as a delegate to the International Sunday school convention. When his name was sent forward to Atlanta, a gentleman of that city, who was on the local committee of entertainment (not an officer of the convention), wrote to Ohio advising against the coming of the colored brother. He did not refuse entertainment to this delegate, nor did he forbid his attendance. He simply expressed his personal opinion of the undesirableness of his coming. This he did on his own responsibility, stating at the time that he had "not named this subject to the committee" of which he was a member. After due consideration of the facts, the colored clergyman decided to remain at home. He was not excluded from the convention. He did not even apply to it for admission.

Now if this gentleman of the Atlanta local committee might be supposed to fairly represent the feeling of his community, there would be ground for complaint against those who would shut out from an invited convention any of its duly authenticated delegates, on the score of race, sex, or age; but on this point there was no room left for doubt. On the day when the convention assembled, THE ATLANTA DAILY CONSTITUTION, the leading paper of that city, and a representative paper of the dominant party in the south, gave all the facts in the case, and published at length the correspondence, accompanied by several strictures on the course of the gentleman who had so freely expressed an opinion against the coming of the colored delegate. This statement of facts was given under the expressive headings: "An unnecessary letter to Ohio. Misrepresenting southern sentiment. Its prompt repudiation in the south." Referring to the fact that the colored clergyman had decided not to put in an appearance, the CONSTITUTION said:

This is where the mistake was made. If he had come, he would, in our opinion, have been admitted without a question.

As to the sentiment in Atlanta, it was declared that "a very general condemnation" of the suggestion that the colored delegate ought to stay away, was made by citizens who expressed themselves on the subject. For example:

One gentleman said, "After we have endorsed Governor Colquitt in going repeatedly to the colored church and preaching to the negroes, after we have seen a colored man and his family sitting for years in St. Philip's church, after the Catholic church has four or five times put their church at the service of colored people—it is foolish to protest against a negro delegate in the Sunday school convention.

And again THE CONSTITUTION said:

Arnett would have found an undisputed seat in the convention if he had presented his credentials. Even if there had been political sentiment opposed to his admission, it does seem to us that the nature of the convention to which he was accredited should have secured him his seat. The international Sunday school convention is the most catholic and liberal body in theory on this earth. It is the only body in which all religions and men of the denominations can meet. Under its broad banner all creeds and all nationalities are sheltered and welcomed. It is contrary, then, to the spirit of the convention that the seat of any properly accredited delegate should be put in question or dispute.

All this was before the convention assembled. When that body came together, it was evident to its members that there was nothing like proscription of any class of its delegates by the community to which it had been invited, and that even a suggestion in that direction had been promptly and publicly rebuked by the representative press of the region. There certainly seemed no reason why the convention should volunteer the opinion that a citizen of Atlanta had not been sufficiently reproved for the expression of his individual views concerning the proper membership of that body. The convention did, however, without any hesitation, admit to the full privileges of its membership a colored delegate from another state, and it would have received as many more as presented themselves with proper credentials.

Other southern papers criticised, in the same strain with THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, the course of the state, and that his letter has been written to save himself with the administration with which, it is intimated, he is already in bad odor. There is a great deal of bitterness among the democrats here over the course Mr. Key has taken, and the letter of the Tennessee delegation will be the signal, no doubt, for a general attack upon him.

STEPHENS AS AN INDEPENDENT.

Notwithstanding Mr. Stephens's emphatic denial of the statement that he prepared a list of twenty-two democrats who would follow him to prevent investigation, the statement is reiterated to-day that such a list was furnished the republican leaders. Democrats mention it as a singular coincidence that Mr. Stephens's letter should have been written almost simultaneously with his announcement that he is an independent candidate for reelection to congress.

MR. KEY'S MISTAKE.

SOUTHERN COMMENTS ON HIS REPORT TO KEEP HIS PLACE IN THE CABINET.

The Delegation in Congress from Tennessee Preparing a Reply to his Letter.

Special dispatch to the New York World.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The publication of Postmaster General Key's letter created considerable comment among members of congress to-day. The democrats are unanimous in condemnation of Mr. Key's course of action. Not alone do they deprecate the attempt whic Mr. Key has made to rend the democratic party in the south, but his southern friends speak contemptuously of him as a man who has lost his mental balance. The republicans intimate that if Mr. Key had not expressed his sentiments as he did, party influence with the president would have made a new postmaster geneal. Senator Harris, of Tennessee, said:

The publication of this letter is very unfortunate for Key, especially in our state. His intention was to disorganize the democratic party in the south and to build an administration party on the ruins, but his letter will not serve that purpose. Mr. Key knows, as every sensible man must know, that the democrats who passed the Potter resolution have no intention of disturbing Hayes's title. The investigation of the Florida and Louisiana election frauds was a democratic movement. Mr. Key does not possess the power to demoralize the democratic party in the south in the slightest.

Senator Bailey was Judge Key's successful opponent for the senatorship from Tennessee, and he will not express publicly his opinion of the postmaster general's letter. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, said:

Judge Key's letter will have no effect on the people of the south, except to disgust them with its author. When the senate confirmed Key he said in my hearing that he had told Hayes before accepting a cabinet position that he believed Tilden was honestly elected. This letter is simply an attempt on Key's part to disintegrate the democratic party of the south. But it can't be done. The democrats of the south do not want a member of a republican cabinet to take out letters of guardianship over them. Key is a man of sense, I think, and he must know that no intelligent member of either of the two parties dreams of invalidating Hayes's title to the presidency The decision of the electoral commission on that point was final.

Senator Maxey, of Texas, said:

Key has made a fool of himself. His letter will have no effect in the south, but I can't tell what its influence in the north. Key is not the proper person to write such a letter. His post office will not bear him out in so doing. He leaped from the democratic party into the administration of another party. Neither democrats nor republicans have confidence in him. I do not approve the investigation, believing that the democrats have already a sufficiently good case of fraud to go before the country with, but I considered that an investigation meant an attempt to impugn Hayes's title.

Senator Hill said:

The only effect of Key's letter is to land him high and dry in the ranks of the republican party, without any democratic company.

TENNESSEE REPUDIATES HIM.

The democrats of the Tennessee delegation are preparing a letter to the people of their state as an offset to the letter of the postmaster general. They will take the ground that by accepting a position in a republican cabinet he has forfeited his claim to the patronage, fealty and respect of the democratic

Mr. Stephens Talks Right but Acts Wrong.

Charleston Journal of Commerce.

Mr. Stephens was a states rights man in 1832, but he opposed the nullification of the unconstitutional tariff of 1828, the first great lesion on the constitution. He was a states rights man in 1851-2; but he opposed action to prevent the unconstitutional exclusion of southern men with their property from the territory acquired from Mexico by blood and taxes paid by the people of the south. He was a states rights man in 1860, advocating the right of secession, but was opposed to the remedy against a revolutionary sectional party coming into power. When President Grant, through Judge Durell's midnight order, and Marshal Packard's United States troops as a posse, overthrew the state government of Louisiana, elected by a clear majority of from 8,000 to 13 000 votes, Mr. Stephens came to the rescue of what the radical committee of privileges and elections, consisting of Messrs. Morton, Carpenter and others, pronounced in February, 1877, a usurpation and a fraud. In a volunteer letter he undertook to justify President Grant and his use of the United States tro

HUMAN HYENAS.

HON JOHN SCOTT HARRISON TORN FROM HIS GRAVE.

The Gray Old Man Found Dangling in a "Dead-Shaft," Naked and Mutilated, Awaiting the Director's Knife.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Day before yesterday the dead body of John Scott Harrison, the son of a president and honored citizen of the Ohio valley and beloved member of society, was laid to rest in Congress Green cemetery, alongside the tomb of his president father, whose name this great country delights to revere. Yesterday his son climbed to the top story of the Ohio medical college in search of the stolen body of a young friend who had died a few days since, and removing a cloth from the face of a corpse in one of the dissecting rooms, discovered beneath the horrid mask the features of his dead father. The horrors of this sudden discovery who can detail? They are only equaled by the just indignation which must be felt by every citizen, that the name of our fair city has been dishonored by this foul deed, the violation of the tomb of a long honored citizen, the desecration of that of a president. But yesterday he had seen, by living hands and grief-burdened hearts, the form of the venerable and long-loved father laid in its supposed final resting-place, the features marked with a graceful smile and beautiful even in death: to-day he saw it suddenly appear before him in that most dreaded of places, the dissecting room, robbed even of its grave clothing, the peaceful smile displaced by distorted features, the venerable snow-white beard rudely cut away to disfigure the body, and the hoary head pressed forward and bleeding from the cruel rope by which it had been drawn from its resting-place or lifted to its elevated position upon the table. What a sight this and what a shock for a loving son, and we wonder that he grew pale and heart-sick, that the strong man became weak and helpless as a child, and that with whirling brain and nerveless limbs he fell senseless into the strong arms of those beside him, who witnessed his emotion in silent, solemn awe. Then with an effort worthy of the noble race from which he sprung, he roused himself from the spell to which the terrible discovery had made him subject, and silently, and with streaming eyes, covered from the gaze of the bystanders the dear form which the cupidity of the thieving human ghouls had denied even the clothing of the grave, and was again lost in the semi-unconsciousness which the horrors of the event had forced upon him.

Seldom has our city been the scene of so tragic an event—never has it been worse disgraced. John Scott Harrison was an honored citizen, whose lifetime of good works had entitled his memory to the honor and respect of those of his own day and those who should follow him. More, he was the son of a president, the last son of one whose memory the nation holds in reverence, whose name and deeds are sacred in the heart of his countrymen. He was buried within the family cemetery in full view and near proximity to the grave of his father, and the violation of the one was the desecration of the other; the indignity and insult and crime which were heaped upon the one covered the other, and for it the head of every lover of his country will hang with shame, and every cheek will mantle with blushes that our boasted civilization and patriotism and culture have been thus violated, and our city and country dishonored. An honored Christian, patriotic citizen, of honored extraction, made sacred by intimate relationship and associations, found in such place and under such circumstances, by a son who had but yesterday seen him laid to rest, and till then had no intimation, or even dream, that his memory had been thus violated.

DETAILS.

The details of the tragic event are as follows: On Saturday the dead body of Mr. Harrison was found in his bedroom at his home, North Bend, upon the historic farm which he had so long occupied, the gift of his father, President Harrison. He had died suddenly, silently, evidently of some mysterious disease, which, as we see from the sequel, seems to have excited the curiosity of the medical fraternity, who, though they must necessarily obtain opportunity to become conversant with the human system and its diseases should, it seems, have something of respect for country and the feelings of the people toward the noblemen of the earlier days. On Wednesday the remains were buried in Congress Green cemetery, situated along the tomb of his honored father.

THE TOMB OF THE PRESIDENT

consists of a plain brick vault located on the summit of a hillock, which rises out of North Bend, only about three hundred yards from the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette depot. The hillock is, for the most part, covered with a thick undergrowth, and immediately surrounding the root of the vault are a few small evergreens. The roof of the vault proper, or the flat tomb, rises only about two and a half or three feet from the ground, the chamber and different apartments being entirely beneath the surface of the hill. Among the last acts of Scott Harrison's life was to put this tomb of his honored father in order. Not a letter is inscribed on this tomb; not the slightest sign to mark the last resting place of a man who was once at the head of the proudest and greatest government on earth.

Located only about a hundred yards from this tomb is the old burying ground of the Harrison family, known about Cleves and North Bend as "Congress Green." Here is the famous Symmes family and the major portion of the Harrison family have been interred, only the old general, his wife, and two or three children having been placed in the tomb above described. Around the Harrison family a fence was years ago built, and then around this fence scattered here and there are other bodies of old pioneers and neighbors. The burying ground is a very modest one, possessing only one or two monuments. Shrubbery makes the place a pleasant one, but it makes it also a very dark, lonely one after nightfall—just the place where ghouls would be apt to delight in their ghastly work, since the dense darkness affords protection. The spot is one historical, and has for years been a place of resort for the curious and for the antiquaries of Ohio and Indiana.

THEORIES.

The theories of this outrage are varied. Some suppose or claim to believe that the robbery was like the general body-snatching, seemingly conducted by outsiders, who know or care nothing of the social standing of their victims. Others believe that the physicians, attracted by the peculiarity of the death of the victim, became anxious to make an examination of the body on that account.

MOUNT DE CHANTAL

Academy of the Visitation

NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.

PARENTS in quest of a first class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of the celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this Institution have been a subject of surprise to native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made the Academy a national one. One feature, in particular that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised to form the pupils to views and habits of economy, and to render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.

These facts, united to the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition ($200 per annum, will we trust, secure to this school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 1st, 1873.

Extract from Minutes Atlanta Cotton Exchange.

RESOLVED, In view of the great loss and inconvenience arising in handling Cotton baled in light flimsy Gunny Bagging, such as has been sold in this market for two years past, the Cotton Trade of Atlanta earnestly request all planters to stop the use of said Bagging, and bale their Cotton with heavy substantial stuff; we especially urge this, knowing that to bale Cotton in heavy Bagging, works no loss or hardships on the Planter, but on the contrary is profitable to him

We hereby pledge ourselves, that, if we find at the opening of another season, parties continuing to bale their Cotton in this flimsy worthless stuff, to demand an allowance of one dollar on every bale so covered, rescuing to ourselves, however, the right to totally reject.

We also earnestly request Planters to avoid the use of what is known as Straw Bagging, as such Bagging stains and discolors Cotton when the bales become wet. Exporters and Spinners, in all directions, are complaining bitterly of this Bagging, and threaten next year to reject entirely Cotton covered with this material.

We, therefore, resolve to reserve the right to reject Cotton packed in this Bagging.

A. T. CUNNINGHAM,
Secretary Atlanta Cotton Exchange

ROWLAND SPRINGS HYGIENIC INSTITUTE.

Open for Invalid and Hygienic Boarders.

The only Institute South superintended by a thoroughly qualified Hygienic Physician. It is not a summer resort for the gay and fashionable world—but a place where the sick may, at any and all times of the year, depend upon quiet, rest and home-like surroundings. Neither is it (as erroneously applied and often understood by Hygienic) a One Sixth establishment proposing to cure all diseases by inducing excessive action of one organ—the Skin, but a place where all real remedial appliances are judiciously employed as aids in restoring all the vital organs to perform normal functions. All enervating and debilitating processes as well as medical drug poisons are positively excluded in the treatment of the sick.

Patients afflicted with Acute diseases or suffering from Old Standing Chronic Complaints, of every description, may rely upon SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT and SPEEDY RESTORATION. Hundreds of invalids, after being drugged and dosed almost to death—and given up as incurable by the drugopathic professions—have been speedily and completely restored to health.

Many persons unable to leave family or business, can, by a little knowledge of treatment, be restored to health at home—description and advice forwarded on receipt of full description of symptoms and duration of disease. HUMAN HYENAS.

HON JOHN SCOTT HARRISON TORN FROM HIS GRAVE.

The Gray Old Man Found Dangling in a "Dead-Shaft," Naked and Mutilated, Awaiting the Dissector's Knife.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Day before yesterday the dead body of John Scott Harrison, the son of a president and honored citizen of the Ohio valley and beloved member of society, was laid to rest in Congress Green cemetery, alongside the tomb of his president father, whose name this great country delights to revere. Yesterday his son climbed to the top story of the Ohio medical college in search of the stolen body of a young friend who had died a few days since, and removing a cloth from the face of a corpse in one of the dissecting rooms, discovered beneath the horrid mask the features of his dead father. The horrors of this sudden discovery who can detail? They are only equaled by the just indignation which must be felt by every citizen, that the name of our fair city has been dishonored by this foul deed, the violation of the tomb of a long honored citizen, the desecration of that of a president. But yesterday he had seen, by living hands and griet-burdened hearts, the form of the venerable and long-loved father laid in its supposed final resting-place, the features marked with a graceful smile and beautiful even in death: to-day he saw it suddenly appear before him in that most dreaded of places, the dissecting room, robbed even of its grave clothing, the peaceful smile dispiaced by distorted features, the venerable snow-white beard rudely cut away to disfigure the body, and the hoary head pressed forward and bleeding from the cruel rope by which it had been drawn from its resting-place or lifted to its elevated position upon the table. What a sight this and what a shock for a loving son, and what wonder that he grew pale and heart-sick, that the strong man became weak and helpless as a child, and that with whirling brain and nerveless limbs he fell senseless into the strong arms of those beside him, who witnessed his emotion in silent, solemn awe. Then with an effort worthy of the noble race from which he sprung, he roused himself from the spell to which the terrible discovery had made him subject, and silently, and with streaming eyes, covered from the gaze of the bystanders the dear form which the cupidity of the thieving human ghouls had denied even the clothing of the grave, and was again lost in the semi-unconsciousness which the horrors of the event had forced upon him.

Seldom has our city been the scene of so tragic an event—never has it been worse disgraced. John Scott Harrison was an honored citizen, whose lifetime of good works had entitled his memory to the honor and respect of those of his own day and those who should follow him. More, he was the son of a president, the last son of one whose memory the nation holds in reverence, whose name and deeds are sacred in the heart of his countrymen. He was buried within the family cemetery in full view and near proximity to the grave of his father, and the violation of the one was the desecration of the other; the indignity and insult and crime which were heaped upon the one covered the other, and for it the head of every lover of his country will hang with shame, and every cheek will mantle with blushes that our boasted civilization and patriotism and culture have been thus violated, and our city and country dishonored. An honored Christian, patriotic citizen, of honored extraction, made sacred by intimate relationship and associations, found in such place and under such circumstances, by a son who had but yesterday seen him laid to rest, and till then had no intimation, or even dream, that his memory had been thus violated.

DETAILS.

The details of the tragic event are as follows: On Saturday the dead body of Mr. Harrison was found in his bedroom at his home, North Bend, upon the historic farm which he had so long occupied, the gift of his father, President Harrison. He had died suddenly, silently, evidently of some mysterious disease, which, as we see from the sequel, seems to have excited the curiosity of the medical fraternity, who, though they must necessarily obtain opportunity to become conversant with the human system and its diseases should, it seems, have something of respect for country and the feelings of the people toward the noblemen of the earlier days. On Wednesday the remains were buried in Congress Green cemetery, situated along the tomb of his honored father.

THE TOMB OF THE PRESIDENT

consists of a plain brick vault located on the summit of a hillock, which rises out of North Bend, only about three hundred yards from the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette depot. The hillock is, for the most part, covered with a thick undergrowth, and immediately surrounding the roof of the vault are a few small evergreens. The roof of the vault proper, or the flat tomb, rises only about two and a half or three feet from the ground, the chamber and different apartments being entirely beneath the surface of the hill. Among the last acts of Scott Harrison's life was to put this tomb of his honored father in order. Not a letter is inscribed on this tomb; not the slightest sign to mark the last resting place of a man who was once at the head of the proudest and greatest government on earth.

Located only about a hundred yards from this tomb is the old burying-ground of the Harrison family, known about Cleves and North Bend as "Congress Green." Here is the famous Symmes family and the major portion of the Harrison family have been interred, only the old general, his wife, and two or three children having been placed in the tomb above described. Around the Harrison family a fence was years ago built, and then around this fence scattered here and there are other bodies of old pioneers and neighbors. The burying ground is a very modest one, possessing only one or two monuments. Shrubbery makes the place a pleasant one, but it makes it also a very dark, lonely one after nightfall—just the place where ghouls would be apt to delight in their ghastly work, since the dense darkness affords protection. The spot is one historical, and has for years been a place of resort for the curious and for the antiquaries of Ohio and Indiana.

THEORIES.

The theories of this outrage are varied. Some suppose or claim to believe that the robbery was like the general body-snatching, seemingly conducted by outsiders, who know or care nothing of the social standing of their victims. Others believe that the physicians, attracted by the peculiarity of the death of the victim, became anxious to make an examination of the body on that account.

John Ryan has also received intelligence that his New York Buyer has purchased the entire stock of a New York Suit manufacturer at an enormous sacrifice. Those Suits he is informed are stylish and well made and the quantity being very large, he will offer them at a very small margin of profit. Prices will be from $2 to $12. Those parties desiring samples will please order at once as the prices will sell the goods readily.

John Ryan will say in conclusion that he has the most complete stock of Dry Goods, Carpets, Oil Cloth, Lace Goods, Lambrequins, Boots and Shoes, Hats, Trunks, Notions, and an endless variety of all other goods in his line and thinks that no one, in justice to himself, purchasing goods in this market, can afford to buy goods in other houses before inspecting his stock and knowing his prices, though they may importune you, as they have done before, with tears in their eyes, to call back and tell Ryan's Prices and then they will sell at the same prices.

10 Pieces Black Camel's Hair Cloth, a beautiful texture, ordered by John Ryan from Lyons, in France, by Cable dispatch, just received, 75c, $1 00 and $1 25. This arricle is sold in New York, owing to its scarcity, at $1 50 to $2 00.

Important to Parents and Guardians

MOUNT DE CHANTAL

Academy of the Visitation

NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.

PARENTS in quest of a first class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of the celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours. The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this Institution has been a subject of surprise to the native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made the Academy almost a national one. One feature, in particular that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised to form the pupils to views and habits of economy, and so render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.

These facts, united by the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition ($200 per annum, will we trust, secure to this school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 1st, 1873.

Extract from Minutes Atlanta Cotton Exchange.

RESOLVED, In view of the great loss and inconvenience arising in handling cotton baled in light flimsy Gunny Bagging, such as has been sold in this market for two years past, the Cotton Trade of Atlanta earnestly request all planters to stop the use of said Bagging, and bale their Cotton with heavy substantial stuff; we especially urge this, knowing that to bale Cotton in heavy Bagging, works no loss or hardships on the Planter, but on the contrary is profitable to him.

We hereby pledge ourselves, that, if we find at the opening of another season, parties continuing to bale their Cotton in this flimsy worthless stuff, to demand an allowance of one dollar on every bale so covered, reserving to ourselves, however, the right to totally reject.

We also earnestly request Planters to avoid the use of what is known as Straw Bagging, as such Bagging stains and discolors Cotton when the bales become wet. Exporters and Spinners, in all directions, are complaining bitterly of this Bagging, and threaten next year to reject entirely Cotton covered with this material.

We, therefore, resolve to reserve the right to reject Cotton packed in this Bagging.

A. T. CUNNINGHAM,
Secretary Atlanta Cotton Exchange.

THE

Tate Epsom Spring,

BY THOMAS TOMLINSON.

THIS watering place, well known as furnishing the best medicinal water in the United States, is now ready for the reception of visitors, and will be kept in the best style during the entire season. The curative and restorative results from even a short and limited use of this water have been so eternally illustrated in the past, and experienced by such large numbers of persons, residing in every section of the country, that it is deemed unnecessary to present any elaborate exposition or commendation of its singular and wonderful qualities. Personal experience is a more reliable and satisfactory test than any chemical analysis, and thus tried, it has been found without an equal. A correct analysis, however, will be furnished to those who desire it. Thousands have come to this Spring for relief, and but few have gone away without finding it.

No effort to please will be omitted, and every diligence will be used to promote the health, the comfort and pleasure of visitors.

The terms of the house will be made satisfactory.

Morristown, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad is the nearest railway station, and conveyances running to the Spring connect regularly with all trains.

For full and reliable information as to all matters of detail, address the proprietor, Tate Epsom Spring, East Tennessee, and prompt answers, accompanied by circular, will always be received.

Neither is it (as erroneously applied and often understood by Hygienic) a Gas Bath establishment proposing to cure all diseases by inducing excessive action of one organ—the Skin, but a place where all real remedial appliances are judiciously employed as aids in restoring all the vital organs to perform normal functions. All enervating and debilitating processes as well as medical drug poisons are positively excluded in the treatment of the sick.

SELLING A TOMBSTONE.

A Novel Scene on Whitehall Street Yesterday.

On yesterday morning at about ten o'clock Mr. D. N. Judson, a dealer in tombstones in this city, halted a dray in front of Lewis Clark's hat store.

The negro driving the dray then took off of it a square granite block. This was carefully adjusted to the sidewalk by Mr. Judson, and the negro then climbed back on the dray.

This time he lifted up a tombstone, which had been carefully engraved with the name of the son of a prominent lawyer of this state, living in one of the towns of middle Georgia.

The stone was a handsome one, being engraved on both sides. On one side were the last words of the little child, and some other inscriptions, and on the other a beautiful poem.

A GOOD CROWD HAD COLLECTED

by this time, being drawn together by the unusual sight of a tombstone being erected in the principal business street of the city.

Mr. Judson explained in response to inquiries that the tombstone had been engraved some time ago at the order of the father of the child. It was sent to him and had remained with him for several years. He having failed to pay for it, Mr. Judson then went to the town in which he lived, and levying on it by right of ownership, brought it back to Atlanta to sell it. He also had some articles of silverware which the father and mother of the child had placed in his hands as collateral for the gravestone.

The sale commenced with quite a crowd in attendance. There was quite a sympathy developed for the friends of the child, and no one bid for the grave-stone except Mr. Judson, who took it in on the first and only bid of $5. The silverware brought $25.

When the sale was over, Mr. Anthony Murphy, having been informed as to the facts in the case, promptly bought the tombstone himself, having it made over to the mother of the child. Another gentleman paid the freight and shipping expenses, and it was sent off on yesterday afternoon. The affair created a great deal of excitement.

A Railroad Meeting.

An important meeting of railroad men is to take place in Cincinnati on Monday the 3d instant. An effort is being made by Mr R. T. Wilson and other railroad men to procure an arrangement with the Cincinnati Southern railroad to suspend work on the latter road for two or more years. In consideration of this fact they propose to construct a line from Chitwood, the present terminus of the Cincinnati Southern, to Knoxville, Tennessee, only about seventeen miles.

Yesterday a delegation of railroad men from Charlotte, North Carolina, composed of the following well known railroaders, passed passed through our city on their way to the Cincinnati meeting: R Y McAden, A B Springs, W R Myers, B T McAden, J L Brown and F S De Wolf.

From what we could gather from these gentlemen there is a movement on foot to try and turn the freight and travel coming south over the Cincinnati Southern road, through North Carolina. The road from Spartanburg, S. C., to Ashville, N. C., will soon be completed. The Western North Carolina, now being built by the state of North Carolina, from Salsbury, North Carolina, to Ashville, will also be soon completed—only about twenty miles to finish. With these roads completed, there is only a short gap of about seven miles to grade between Ashville and Morristown, Tenn. When this is done and the seventeen miles of road from Knoxville to Chitwood constructed it will furnish an immense outlet for western trade through North Carolina. It will be a decent route to Charleston, and those gentlemen claim the nearest way to the seacoast. We hope our railroad men in this city are not going to stand still and see the Gate City run over, that is, see other gate cities built up in North and South Carolina. What are we doing to induce the Cincinnati Southern to drop the immense freights and travel coming south over their line into our laps. It is something to look after.

A Good Officer.

The Macon Telegraph says: We learn from an exchange that R. W. Wrenn, Esq., is spoken of for Secretary of the North Georgia Fair association. A better selection could not possibly be made. There are few men who combine so many rare qualifications for an office involving so much tact, industry and energy. In all of these requisites Mr. Wrenn is confessedly inferior to no individual that we wot of. He is literally tireless and irrepressible in all that he undertakes. Witness his labors for the "Kenesaw Route." Under his auspices the success of the Fair association would be a foregone conclusion.

MRS SOTHERN'S RESURRECTION.

Something Further From the Famous Prisoner

We learn that Mrs. Kate Fothern, the famous prisoner, reached Captain Smith's camp in safety, although she was considerably tired by her journey.

We learn, furthermore, that she received many presents of money while in this city. Mr. O. C. Carroll sent her a bottle of fine port wine.

By the way, the police who had charge of the depot on the night of her arrival, each one deserve a gold medal. There never was such a rush in Atlanta, and only the firmest treatment prevented a little riot. Captain Nelms, the keeper of penitentiary, says that he knew of a better choice to barricade the door at the last moment, and thus prevent the miserable woman being carried off that night. He prevented this by hurrying her to the train some half hour before the crowd reported it.

After Mrs. Southern was lodged in the cars the pressure was tremendous. Several windows were broken, and one or two shutters smashed in. The police, however, kept everything firm, and, after awhile, admitted the crowd, in a steady stream, through the car, that they might get a peep at Mrs. Southern. Capt. Mike White was in charge of the police, and Messrs. King, Aldridge and Gordon were on duty. Of course the veteran Porter, who keeps things quiet at the car-shed, was on hand, as firm and as ubiquitous as ever. Atlanta will not again see such a "mash" as that war—certainly not in a hurry.

The Pomologists.

The Atlanta Pomological society met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the usual place.

A full attendance was present, with President W P Robinson in the chair and Mr M Cole secretary.

The exhibition of fruit was quite good and varieties more numerous than at any meeting during the present season. The display is reported below.

A general discussion was indulged in relative to the culture of various kinds of fruits.

A CAT IN THE MEAL TUB.

Mr DeGive reported that a fruit tree peddler had made his appearance in this section, and was selling a large number of trees at such low prices that the nurseries of Atlanta were being cut out of their trade.

It was stated that the peddler represented Messrs. Dunlop & Young, of Troy, Ohio. Several of the members thought that the peddler was an imposter, and that he should be run out of the county. Mr. Jenkins stated that a friend of his had bought $156 worth of trees at much higher prices than they could be purchased from our home nurseries, and that the inducement offered to the purchaser of the trees was the building of large, highly colored pictures.

On motion of Dr. Hape a committee of three consisting of Messrs. B. J. Wilson, W. A. Bass and J. S. Newman, were appointed to frame a resolution expressive of the opinion of the society towards this fruit tree peddler that has made his appearance in our midst.

The committee submitted the following resolutions, which were, on motion adopted.

Whereas, We have been reliably informed that traveling agents of distant nurseries are imposing upon the credulous in this section by selling trees and vines at exorbitant prices—from four to five times their cost at home nurseries—under false representations: and

Whereas, We deems to protect the misinformed from such impositions;

Resolved, That we, as a society, caution our people against purchasing trees or vines from unknown parties representing themselves as agents of distant nurseries, since the trees are not so well adapted to our climate as those grown in our own state, while their cost is from four hundred to five hundred per cent higher than that of better stock at home nurseries.

Resolved, That this action is not intended to reflect upon honest nurserymen at a distance, but only upon unreliable traveling agents who impose upon the uninformed.

Resolved, That the commissioner of agriculture be requested to print these resolutions in his next monthly circular, and that the secretary be directed to furnish him with a copy of the same; also that THE CONSTITUTION be requested to publish it in full for the benefit of the fruit-growers of our section.

Mr Mark Johnson moved that the members be required to pay up their yearly dues.

The treasurer reported that the treasury was flush; that he had six dollars in his hands which he did not know what to do with.

Dr Hape was opposed to paying dues unless there was a necessity for doing so.

A motion to table the motion made by Mr Johnson was put before the society and agreed to.

Mr W P Robinson was elected president for the ensuing year by acclamation, and Mr M Cole was elected secretary in a like manner.

On motion of Dr Hape it was decided to have a fruit display the present season. A committee consisting of Messrs L Destive, Dr W H Hoyt, B J Wilson, W A Bass, J S Newman, was appointed to consider the matter and arrange for the holding of the same. The committee will report at the next meeting of the association. The society then adjourned and the fruit vanish hed from sight like a ghost.

ILLUSTRIOUS GEORGIANS.

Their Pictures for the Library.

Yesterday we saw a portrait of Governor Brown, just finished by Mr. Albert Guerry, of this city. To describe the picture would be simply to describe the distinguished Georgian it represents, for it is a perfect likeness, a masterpiece of the portrait painter's art. It has the best expression of Governor Brown and his most intimate friends pronounce the likeness perfect. Many consider this he best work Mr. Guerry has yet done, and it certainly is remarkably well executed. The picture will be donated by Governor Brown to the Young Men's library, in response to a request from that institution.

A similar favor was asked at the same time of Mr. Hill, General Gordon, General Toombs and Mr. Stephens. Surely they will not refuse, and we hope to see all their portraits in the library soon. Governor Brown's portrait is now to be seen at Mr. Guerry's studio on Whitehall street.

Picture of Col J. E. Owens.

The office of the Markham house is now ornamented with a very fine crayon likeness of the late lamented proprietor, Colonel James E. Owens. It is the work of Mrs Gregory, of this city, whose skill in this art we have noticed before. The portrait should always be kept in the house which Mr. Owens made so famous. It is a faithful likeness of him.

The Grand Concert

It is seldom, if ever, that such an array of artists has been seen on a programme as those who we are assured will give the concert at Concordia hall to-morrow night. A glance at the programme, given in another column, is sufficient to induce every lover of music to go down, if necessary, to the very bottom of his pocket for the requisite funds to pay his admission fee. The selections are all very beautiful and pleasing, and have received most careful study and preparation. We wish to call attention to the splendid selection from Der Freischutz to be sung by Madame Werner, the favorite Agathe of New York; the piano solo of Mrs Mary Madden, comprising pieces by Wagner, Chopin and Mendelssonn; De Beriot's First Concerta, played by F. L. Freyer, our old favorite violinist. Besides this are vocal solos, duetts and quartettes; instrumental trio, flute duette, etc. 15

John Keely.

Is now in New York, and as goods are being slaughtered there under an unusual depression, it is only reasonable to believe that immense bargains will be purchased by him.

Perhaps never has there been such a pressure upon the dry goods trade in New York, as at the present time. The auction rooms are choked up with goods, placed there to be sold regardless of cost, or value, but swiftly with the instruction to "Realize" on them at once.

Purchasers of dry goods will do well to call at his store for what they want, during the coming week as the first shipments made by him, of his purchase, will be arriving, and extraordinary bargains are promised.

He is going to buy a very large stock, and will handle the goods in such large quantities as will enable him to take every advantage in their purchase. One thing is sure. Nobody in this town can, or shall offer greater inducements to purchasers. Call and see his goods and hear the prices. This is all that is necessary to insure large sales at John Keely's.—june 1t.

A Blessing to Mothers.

There will be no necessity for mothers leaving the comforts of home, with their sick babies, this summer, if they will give Dr Moffett's Teethina (teething powders) Teethina will regulate the bowels and make teething easy. It cures cholera infantum and summer complaints of children, heals eruptions and sores, removes and prevents the formation of worms. Hunt, Rankin & Lamar, and all druggists keep it.
